Security Driver vs Close Protection Officer (CPO)

It's important to know who you're booking and what level of protection you require.

Here's a quick guide:

	SECURITY DRIVER	CLOSE PROTECTION OFFICER (CPO)
PRIMARY FUNCTION	A Security Driver is a trained security officer or security operator with experience in defensive and protective driving.	A Close Protection Officer (CPO) is a specialist in personal security and executive protection.
ARMED	No	Yes
TRAINING	Defensive driving, situational awareness	Tactical defence, threat mitigation, firearms
SUITED TO	General secure transfers	VIPs, high-risk environments, executive escorts

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

What's the difference between a Security Driver and a Close Protection Officer (CPO)?

- A Security Driver is a trained, professional driver with security awareness who is unarmed and ensures safe and discreet transport.
- A CPO is an armed executive protection specialist, trained to assess threats and provide active protection during transport.

How far in advance should I book?

- We require a minimum of 24 hours' notice.
- Ideally, please book 72 hours or more in advance to ensure all arrangements are confirmed smoothly.

What vehicle options do I have?

- You may choose between a BMW X3 (standard) or the BMW X5 or the Hyundai Staria.

*special request – different rates apply.

How do I know which service to choose?

- Refer to the service table in this guide for examples.
- If you're unsure, speaK GSOC for personalised assistance.

Do I need to tip the driver?

- No tipping is expected or required. Our team is fully compensated for their professional service.

Can I arrange beverages in the vehicle?

- Yes! Please liaise with your coordinator in advance, especially for longer or full-day bookings.

Do I need to pay for parking?

- No. Your driver will take care of parking arrangements and this will be billed back to you.

8

Will I know who the driver is beforehand?

- Yes. You will receive the driver's details in advance so you know who to expect.

Can you accommodate special needs or arrangements?

- Absolutely. That's what makes our service different. Communicate any special requests to your coordinator.

10

Can I contact NSA after hours for emergencies or changes?

- Yes, you may contact our GSOC for support.
- However, last-minute bookings cannot be accommodated – all bookings require at least 24 hours' notice.

11

Can I use this for personal trips?

- Yes, Secure Drive is a service for both business and personal use. The invoice for personal use will be billed directly to the individual.

12

What if the booking exceeds the kilometres?

- When you book, we'll advise based on your provided start and end locations. Additional kilometres may apply and will be quoted accordingly in advance.

Can I use NSA Secure Drive outside of Gauteng?

- While our special point-to-point Secure Drive service is currently available only within Gauteng, we are able to assist with executive transport in other major cities across South Africa. If you require services outside of Gauteng, please contact the coordinator. A tailored quotation will be provided based on your specific location and needs.
